

Foundation for Hearing Research

Parent Education Program

THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 9TH
7:30-8:30 PM PST

EXECUTIVE FUNCTION AND HEARING LOSS

What is “Executive Function” (EF)?

EF is a collection of skills that act as the control center of the brain. It’s what enables us to start a task and finish it, display self-control, stay focused despite distractions, and so much more.

Join us to learn about EF’s role in child development. We will summarize the current research on executive functioning and explain how hearing loss and language skills may impact EF. You will leave this session with strategies to support your child's EF development and strengthen their ability to learn, think, and do.

Register with Shannon Sharma at ssharma@weingartence.org